

World League Fails to Stir Maine Voters

Republicans Aim to Carry Lewiston and County of Knox, Both Recognized as Democratic Strongholds

Opponents Losing Hope

Center Campaign on Local Offices; Farmers Resent Wilson Extravagance

By Charles T. White

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 7.—The Republicans are out to capture the only two regular Democratic strongholds in Maine, the City of Lewiston and the County of Knox, and it looks as if they would make good in their plans.

The drift in the 2d Congressional District, represented by Wallace H. White jr., is unmistakably favorable to the Republicans. Representative White carried the district by 500 in 1916 against Representative McGillicuddy and by 3,000 in the election two years ago. Mr. White's supporters are confident that they will reflect his past record by from 50,000 to 10,000, and that White will carry Lewiston and Knox County, something that no Republican has done for the last eighteen years for an important office where both sides were in earnest.

Representative White's opponent is Dr. Wallace N. Price, of Richmond, who has served in the upper and lower houses of the State Legislature. Dr. Price is not making an active campaign, the Republicans say, and even if he did they are confident of rolling up a record plurality Monday.

People Indifferent to League

The Democrats are still using the League of Nations as their main issue, but the people are not much interested in it and want to hear something else.

Lewiston is the real fighting ground of the state. The Republicans have not elected a Mayor there in the last dozen years. The Democrats have nearly quit fighting for their candidates for Governor and Congress, and have bent their energies to the election of "Lew" Brann as sheriff and to the election of the County Attorney, both of which positions are now filled by Republicans.

The Republicans have renominated Sheriff Frederick E. Stevens, of Auburn, just across the Androscoggin from Lewiston, and are confident of electing him. Benjamin L. Berman is the Republican candidate for County Attorney.

The 2d Congressional District comprises the counties of Androscoggin, Knox, Lincoln, Oxford, Franklin and Sagadahoc, with three counties bordering on the Atlantic coast, one on New Hampshire and two on Canada.

Among the cities and towns are Lewiston, Auburn, Rockland, Thomaston, Woolwich, Camden, Rockport, Livermore Falls, Lisbon, Lisbon Falls, Richmond, Bowdoinham and Damariscotta.

Lewiston and Auburn have extensive cotton mills, shirt and shoe factories. There is a considerable French population in Lewiston and until two years ago the Democratic party had support almost solidly. Two years ago Representative White cut into this element, with the result that now nearly half of the French people vote the Republican ticket.

White lieutenant, a former shoe factory worker has been most effective in winning the French voters away from their Democratic affiliations, and more are coming over all the time.

Democratic Oratory Futile

The Democratic campaign in Lewiston appears to have been shot to pieces. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Raymond Robins spoke to a large meeting on September 1 in the City Hall in Lewiston, the audience remaining attentive until the close of the speaking.

Last Saturday night Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, and Mrs. Funk addressed a meeting in the City Hall, but five minutes after Mr. Roosevelt began speaking the audience

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

"A thriller! We'll say it is. Spectators standing and cheering" (New York World) "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre.—Adv.

Judge Miller Pledges Fight For Harding

Candidate for Governor Declares That All Issues Must Be Subordinate to Republican Victory

Wadsworth Scores League

Women Prominent in State and National Affairs Applaud Both Nominees

By Charles T. White

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

Judge Nathan L. Miller, speaking at the National Republican Club last night, pledged himself, if nominated for Governor at the primaries, to put his shoulder to the wheel and work during the rest of the campaign to carry New York State for Harding and Coolidge.

The Republican nominee for Governor refrained from boogieing his own election and declared that the overshadowing issue was to obtain as large a majority as possible for the Republican national candidates.

Judge Miller and Senator James W. Wadsworth jr. were the speakers at a reception tendered by the Republican State Committee at the Republican Club to all the men on the state ticket designated at Saratoga. They were all present, including Jeremiah Wood, of Lynbrook, L. I., the designee for Lieutenant Governor; John J. Lyons, designated for Secretary of State; James A. Wendel, for State Comptroller; M. Monroe Marshall, for Treasurer; Attorney General Charles D. Newton and State Engineer Frank M. Williams.

Arthur L. Livermore, Miss Mary Wood and other women active in the affairs of the state and of the Republican National Committee, attended the reception.

The state committee also selected Presidential Electors to fill the places in Congressional districts where they have not already been chosen. Ruth B. Pratt, in the 11th District; Alexander Wolf, in the 12th District; Sadie Koenig, in the 14th District; Mathilda Schaefer, in the 16th District; Millard E. Ellison, Hahn, in the 21st District. In Brooklyn Michael J. Dady was chosen in the 3d District; Richard H. Laimbeer jr. in the 4th District; Thomas Fairweather in the 7th District; and Max Drucker in the 10th. Two electors were chosen in the 34th District, and George Underwood, of Auburn, in the 36th District.

Major Harrison K. Bird, sent his letter of resignation as treasurer of the state committee. He had been treasurer since 1916. State Chairman George A. Glynn was empowered to name a new treasurer. A letter was read from Harry S. New, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican National Committee, in which he said the Republicans would formally open their speaking campaign September 17. He said that an effort was to be made to hold a meeting in every county in all states on that day to further the cause of Harding and Coolidge.

Wadsworth Condemns League

Addison B. Parker, chairman of the Miller primary campaign committee, in introducing Judge Miller, paid a high tribute to all the designers on the state ticket. He declared that the Republican party would get out 60 per cent of the enrolled vote on primary day. Judge Miller said that if this sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

"Incidentally, we are to vote whether we shall have in the White House a statement of the stability and common sense of the League of Nations, or the sense of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, or the Governor of that state, who has never had the slightest experience in our national affairs and who seeks to maintain inviolate the arbitrary policies and the czar-like rule of Woodrow Wilson.

"Through the November election," he said, "we are to say whether the Constitutional government of our fathers is to be maintained or to give way to a concentration of legislative and judicial powers in the Executive.

Lenroot and Moses Ahead In Primaries

Candidate for Governor Declares That All Issues Must Be Subordinate to Republican Victory

Wadsworth Scores League

Women Prominent in State and National Affairs Applaud Both Nominees

By Charles T. White

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

Peterborough, N. H., Sept. 8.—Senator George H. Moses, Republican, who was renominated in yesterday's state primaries, in reply early today to a message of congratulation from his opponent, Huntley N. Spaulding, expressed in many ways not strictly according to the requirements of the valid. This, together with stiffer voting for two candidates for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, made the counting slow.

At midnight, with about one-third of the state heard from, including cities and towns in all sections, State Senator John J. Walsh was leading Richard H. Long, Democratic nominee for Governor in the last two years, by a slight margin for this year's nomination. Returns from 436 precincts, including the City of Boston, out of 1,205 in the state, gave Long, 21,946; Walsh, 22,740.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor returns from 100 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts placed Speaker Joseph E. Warner, of the State House of Representatives, in the lead, with Former State Treasurer Charles L. Burrell second, with 8,705. Congressional District 1, Fuller had 7,903 and Secretary of State Albert P. Langry 8,896.

On returns from the same precincts for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State, City Clerk Frederick W. Cook, of Somerville, led with 2,956. The vote for the other candidates was: James W. Bean, 6,632; Samuel W. George, 6,555; Russell A. Wood, 6,489; James G. Harris, 3,254.

James Jackson, who ran on stickers, appeared to have a safe lead for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, 200 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts giving him 22,998. Fred J. Burrell, who recently resigned as State Treasurer and asked his friends not to vote for him for renomination, had 10,104. Frederick N. Kerr, who also ran on stickers, had only 196.

Partial returns from three districts indicated the renomination by large pluralities of Spencer Frederick H. Gillett and Representatives Robert

Walsh Takes Lead in Massachusetts Primary

Democratic Contest for Nomination for Governor Close; Confusion Over the Ballots

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Very close contests for the Democratic nomination for Governor and for the Republican nominations for Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of State, marked the state primaries today. The fact that women were voting for the first time gave election officials many puzzles in trying to determine whether ballots marked in many ways not strictly according to the requirements of the valid. This, together with stiffer voting for two candidates for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, made the counting slow.

At midnight, with about one-third of the state heard from, including cities and towns in all sections, State Senator John J. Walsh was leading Richard H. Long, Democratic nominee for Governor in the last two years, by a slight margin for this year's nomination. Returns from 436 precincts, including the City of Boston, out of 1,205 in the state, gave Long, 21,946; Walsh, 22,740.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor returns from 100 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts placed Speaker Joseph E. Warner, of the State House of Representatives, in the lead, with Former State Treasurer Charles L. Burrell second, with 8,705. Congressional District 1, Fuller had 7,903 and Secretary of State Albert P. Langry 8,896.

On returns from the same precincts for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State, City Clerk Frederick W. Cook, of Somerville, led with 2,956. The vote for the other candidates was: James W. Bean, 6,632; Samuel W. George, 6,555; Russell A. Wood, 6,489; James G. Harris, 3,254.

James Jackson, who ran on stickers, appeared to have a safe lead for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, 200 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts giving him 22,998. Fred J. Burrell, who recently resigned as State Treasurer and asked his friends not to vote for him for renomination, had 10,104. Frederick N. Kerr, who also ran on stickers, had only 196.

Partial returns from three districts indicated the renomination by large pluralities of Spencer Frederick H. Gillett and Representatives Robert

Walsh Takes Lead in Massachusetts Primary

Democratic Contest for Nomination for Governor Close; Confusion Over the Ballots

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Very close contests for the Democratic nomination for Governor and for the Republican nominations for Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of State, marked the state primaries today. The fact that women were voting for the first time gave election officials many puzzles in trying to determine whether ballots marked in many ways not strictly according to the requirements of the valid. This, together with stiffer voting for two candidates for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, made the counting slow.

At midnight, with about one-third of the state heard from, including cities and towns in all sections, State Senator John J. Walsh was leading Richard H. Long, Democratic nominee for Governor in the last two years, by a slight margin for this year's nomination. Returns from 436 precincts, including the City of Boston, out of 1,205 in the state, gave Long, 21,946; Walsh, 22,740.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor returns from 100 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts placed Speaker Joseph E. Warner, of the State House of Representatives, in the lead, with Former State Treasurer Charles L. Burrell second, with 8,705. Congressional District 1, Fuller had 7,903 and Secretary of State Albert P. Langry 8,896.

On returns from the same precincts for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State, City Clerk Frederick W. Cook, of Somerville, led with 2,956. The vote for the other candidates was: James W. Bean, 6,632; Samuel W. George, 6,555; Russell A. Wood, 6,489; James G. Harris, 3,254.

James Jackson, who ran on stickers, appeared to have a safe lead for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, 200 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts giving him 22,998. Fred J. Burrell, who recently resigned as State Treasurer and asked his friends not to vote for him for renomination, had 10,104. Frederick N. Kerr, who also ran on stickers, had only 196.

Partial returns from three districts indicated the renomination by large pluralities of Spencer Frederick H. Gillett and Representatives Robert

Walsh Takes Lead in Massachusetts Primary

Democratic Contest for Nomination for Governor Close; Confusion Over the Ballots

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Very close contests for the Democratic nomination for Governor and for the Republican nominations for Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of State, marked the state primaries today. The fact that women were voting for the first time gave election officials many puzzles in trying to determine whether ballots marked in many ways not strictly according to the requirements of the valid. This, together with stiffer voting for two candidates for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, made the counting slow.

At midnight, with about one-third of the state heard from, including cities and towns in all sections, State Senator John J. Walsh was leading Richard H. Long, Democratic nominee for Governor in the last two years, by a slight margin for this year's nomination. Returns from 436 precincts, including the City of Boston, out of 1,205 in the state, gave Long, 21,946; Walsh, 22,740.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor returns from 100 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts placed Speaker Joseph E. Warner, of the State House of Representatives, in the lead, with Former State Treasurer Charles L. Burrell second, with 8,705. Congressional District 1, Fuller had 7,903 and Secretary of State Albert P. Langry 8,896.

On returns from the same precincts for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State, City Clerk Frederick W. Cook, of Somerville, led with 2,956. The vote for the other candidates was: James W. Bean, 6,632; Samuel W. George, 6,555; Russell A. Wood, 6,489; James G. Harris, 3,254.

James Jackson, who ran on stickers, appeared to have a safe lead for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, 200 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts giving him 22,998. Fred J. Burrell, who recently resigned as State Treasurer and asked his friends not to vote for him for renomination, had 10,104. Frederick N. Kerr, who also ran on stickers, had only 196.

Partial returns from three districts indicated the renomination by large pluralities of Spencer Frederick H. Gillett and Representatives Robert

Walsh Takes Lead in Massachusetts Primary

Democratic Contest for Nomination for Governor Close; Confusion Over the Ballots

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Very close contests for the Democratic nomination for Governor and for the Republican nominations for Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of State, marked the state primaries today. The fact that women were voting for the first time gave election officials many puzzles in trying to determine whether ballots marked in many ways not strictly according to the requirements of the valid. This, together with stiffer voting for two candidates for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, made the counting slow.

At midnight, with about one-third of the state heard from, including cities and towns in all sections, State Senator John J. Walsh was leading Richard H. Long, Democratic nominee for Governor in the last two years, by a slight margin for this year's nomination. Returns from 436 precincts, including the City of Boston, out of 1,205 in the state, gave Long, 21,946; Walsh, 22,740.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor returns from 100 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts placed Speaker Joseph E. Warner, of the State House of Representatives, in the lead, with Former State Treasurer Charles L. Burrell second, with 8,705. Congressional District 1, Fuller had 7,903 and Secretary of State Albert P. Langry 8,896.

On returns from the same precincts for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State, City Clerk Frederick W. Cook, of Somerville, led with 2,956. The vote for the other candidates was: James W. Bean, 6,632; Samuel W. George, 6,555; Russell A. Wood, 6,489; James G. Harris, 3,254.

James Jackson, who ran on stickers, appeared to have a safe lead for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, 200 Boston precincts and 215 outside precincts giving him 22,998. Fred J. Burrell, who recently resigned as State Treasurer and asked his friends not to vote for him for renomination, had 10,104. Frederick N. Kerr, who also ran on stickers, had only 196.

Partial returns from three districts indicated the renomination by large pluralities of Spencer Frederick H. Gillett and Representatives Robert

Walsh Takes Lead in Massachusetts Primary

Nevada Woman Seeking Senatorial Nomination

Candidate for Governor Declares That All Issues Must Be Subordinate to Republican Victory

Wadsworth Scores League

Women Prominent in State and National Affairs Applaud Both Nominees

By Charles T. White

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

RENO, Nev., Sept. 7.—Nevada voters today balloted upon party candidates for the Senatorial nomination, among them a woman, and for Representative in Congress.

The seats to be filled are those of Senator Charles B. Henderson, of Elko, and Representative Charles R. Evans, of Goldfield. Both are Democrats.

Miss Anne Martin, known as a suffrage worker, is contesting for the Senatorial nomination on an independent ticket. The other candidates for the Democratic and Republican tickets are L. Oddie, the Rev. Brewster Adams, who seek the nomination on the Republican ticket, and Grant Miller, a candidate for the office in a former election, who seeks endorsement on the Socialist ticket.

Both Parties in Arizona Face Primary Contests

Fair Weather Throughout the State as Votes Are Cast for State and U. S. Candidates

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 7.—Fair weather prevailed throughout Arizona for the primaries today. Ballots were cast to nominate state and county officers, United States Senator and members of the House of Representatives on both Democratic and Republican tickets.